

IC Potash provides update on listing on Canadian Stock Exchange

TORONTO – (Globe Newswire) – November 20, 2017 – IC Potash Corp. (TSX: ICP; OTCQB: ICPTF) (“IC Potash” or the “Company”) wishes to provide an update on the timing of the commencement of trading on the Canadian Stock Exchange (the “CSE”). The Company will delist from the Toronto Stock Exchange at the close of trading on Wednesday, November 22, 2017 and commence trading on the CSE on Thursday, November 23, 2017. Prior to the commencement of trading on the CSE, the Company will be completing a change of name and will issue a further press release as soon as it has received confirmation of its trading symbol on the OTCQB.

About the Company

The Company is establishing a diversified portfolio of investments and interests with initial focus on organic fertilizers and resource assets. ICP Organics’, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, focal point is research, development and investment in the fertilizer and medical cannabis sectors, with emphasis on organic fertilizers, pesticide-free products, and specialty cannabis-related consumer product branding and retail sales. Organic products provide value-enhancing opportunities to medical cannabis and other agricultural growers allowing the producers to sell products at premium prices. The introduction of blockchain technology to the cannabis industry will form the foundation for secure operational processes and streamline domestic and international distribution networks.

The Company intends to establish joint research and development partnerships with Canadian Licensed Producers operating under ACMPR regulations in Canada. The Company is also establishing commercial relationships with medical and recreational cannabis producers in the United States. The Company has made an equity investment in cannabis operations in South America. As the Company grows, it plans to build a diversified portfolio in commercial-scale cannabis cultivators and related downstream cannabis industry providers. The Company may invest in various private and public companies in diversified sectors on an opportunistic basis.
